

Sir or Madam:

I am writing to urge you to not pass any telephone privacy regulation that would supercede state laws. The Indiana state privacy law has worked superlatively, and would only degrade via any change. We used to be constantly interrupted, on the order of two to four calls a NIGHT, with calls sometimes coming even in the early morning of the weekend. This has all stopped with the Indiana law, making life much more tolerable.

Again, I urge you to not interfere with the individual states laws regarding telephone privacy.

Sincerely,
D. Todd Mulholland
